Special Educational Needs and Disability Information Report

2018/2019

How does the setting/school/college know if children/young people need extra help and what should I do if I think my child/young person may have special educational needs?

Children with SEND are identified as early as possible within our setting. Our initial identification is usually through assessment or observation by school staff working directly with the child. We also quickly act upon comments or concerns expressed by parents and carers. These concerns may be based on the pupil's general wellbeing, their emotional or behavioural presentation, their progress in comparison to their peer group, or their profile against recognised characteristics of specific forms of SEND. All of our school staff receive regular and updated training to support them in the identification of SEND. In our school early identification of any needs is paramount, and therefore staff working in school monitor all the children's progress very carefully. The progress of all children is monitored by the class teachers and additional adults working in the classroom on a day to day basis. As a school we rigorously monitor children's progress and attainment on a half termly basis. We do this through regular pupil progress meetings, book scrutiny's, lesson observations and learning walks. The SENCO also meets with class teachers to monitor pupils progress, discuss concerns and look at the interventions children are receiving on a regular basis.

From the start we make sure that the pupil, the pupil's family, any additional adults who work with the pupil and the school SENCO are involved in on-going discussions relating to identification and provision for the child's needs. These discussions focus on the desired outcomes for the child, and we look at what support and provision needs to be put in place to enable the child to reach those outcomes and fulfil their potential. Depending upon the level of the child's individual needs we look at what level of support needs to be put into place. This could be implementing class based support and supporting the staff in the classroom in running interventions. However for some children, in addition to the class based support we might also need to implement out of class support and interventions. For pupils with the highest levels of need we will refer the pupils with parents permission to out of school agencies for further advice and support. The SENCO keeps a register of all pupils requiring additional support in order to monitor the progress of these pupils, and to plan for provision across the school.

If you have concerns about any aspect of your child's education the first port of call should be your child's class teacher. We operate an open door policy within school, therefore class teachers are usually available at the end of the school day and are happy to make appointments if you require a longer discussion. The class teacher may then seek the involvement of the school SENCO. Alternatively the school SENCO can be contacted directly, either at the end of the school day, or via the email or phone through the school office. The SENCO at our school is Mrs Pierpoint.

How will early years setting/school/college staff support my child/young person?

We are a fully inclusive school. Therefore it is our aim that all children in our school are able to access appropriate and challenging learning opportunities in and out of the classroom. Our priority is the provision of high quality class teaching which is differentiated to meet the needs of all our learners. In our school, class based approaches might include alternative forms of recording work, visual prompts, small group or individual teaching etc. Class teachers and support staff are supported through regular professional development opportunities to support them in differentiating learning opportunities for the learners in their class.

Our school uses a wide range of intervention programmes available to support children who require support which goes beyond high quality class based approaches. Some of these intervention approaches are published or commercially available packages of support, such as the Boosting Reading Potential programme, Talking Partners, Social Understanding of Language and Beat Dyslexia. Others are bespoke/personalised approaches based on best practice guidance, for example social skills groups. All of our intervention packages are tailored to meet the pupil's individual needs. Before we start an intervention we meet as a team to tailor the package of support. All of our staff are trained in delivering the interventions that they use with children.

For children with significant or complex needs, the school seeks the advice of specialists, for example Speech and Language Therapists, Educational Psychologist, Autism Team. In some cases these specialists might work in school with the child, or school staff might attend therapy sessions out of school with the pupil. Before we contact any outside agency for support we make sure we speak to parents and carers. We make sure that parents and carers are fully involved with decisions regarding the support for their children.

Where additional levels of support are required, a personalised support plan for the pupil is created. We call these pupil passports and these outline the provision available to each child. These are written in collaboration with the pupil, the class teacher and parents. These are kept in the classroom and are regularly annotated. We make sure that parents receive copies. In addition, parents are fully involved in the planning and implementation of support for their child and have the opportunity to discuss their child's progress at regular parent-teacher meetings and in an annual written report. The pupil passports are reviewed each term and re written on an annual basis. Our school SENCO - Mrs Pierpoint is available to discuss any questions or concerns via email (via school office) or in person to discuss pupil's needs in more detail.

How will the curriculum be matched to my child's young person's needs?

We know that all children are unique. All of our teachers take responsibility for meeting the needs of all learners in their class by differentiating the teaching and learning delivered within their lessons. Our teachers plan to meet children's individual needs through detailed planning and differentiated activities. This is done in an exciting and interactive learning environment. Where pupils have SEND, class teachers will be aware of the pupil's areas of strengths and weaknesses, and will make every effort to accommodate these.

Pupil Passports are used to inform all those working with your child and outline the strength and difficulties of the child. These also include details of support and strategies to use to support your child and enable them to access the curriculum and achieve.

Along with differentiated learning activities the class teachers may provide the children with additional resources to support their learning and independent skills.

Where learners are working below age related expectations, class teachers adapt teaching to ensure that gaps in learners' knowledge are covered and they can secure foundations to build upon. For example by re-visiting objectives covered in previous year groups. We aim to encourage independence in all learners and this is promoted by ensuring that independent work tasks are matched as far as possible to the strengths of the learners. For those learners who require a more specialist approach to learning, class teachers are encouraged to discuss approaches to differentiation with the SENCO. All additional provision for pupils with SEND is overseen by the school SENCO, and monitoring of these pupils' progress and their interventions takes place termly.

How will both you and I know how my child/young person is doing and how will you help me to support my child's/young person's learning?

All of our school staff have high expectations for all learners. We make sure that monitoring of progress takes place on a day to day basis by class teachers, and they are often best placed to identify where progress is falling or excelling. For our learners with the most significant needs, daily contact with families takes place, for example through informal conversation at the end of the school day or sometimes in home-school books. We also make sure that a key person or your child's class teacher can be spoken to at the beginning or end of the day. You are always welcome to make an appointment through the school office. Our school SENCO will happily meet with parents/carers by prior appointment. Our Parents Evenings are held twice a year giving time for sharing progress and discussing the appropriate next steps for your child. The Pupil Passports are reviewed with parents, children, their class teacher and the SENCO at appropriate intervals suited to your child's individual's needs. Any external agencies involved with your child are able to visit the school to observe or work with the child and they produce a report which outlines recommendations on how we can further support your child. We have a rigorous tracking system in place to monitor your progress and attainment.

On a day to day basis the children know how they are doing through feedback from teachers, praise and rewards and next step marking.

For children with Education Health and Care Plans (EHCP) an annual review will be held. Parents are welcome to seek additional appointments to discuss their child's progress as required, and class teachers are usually available for informal discussions at the end of each school day. Our school warmly welcomes and encourages parental involvement.

What support will there be for my child's/young person's overall wellbeing?

In our school we know that children need supporting in and out of the classroom. We make sure that all children's needs are catered for and supported. We look at this in four main areas of support.

PASTORAL

We recognise that pupils with SEND can experience a range of social and emotional issues. As well as a whole school focus on social and emotional wellbeing through our PSCHÉ and Religious Education teaching we offer a range of interventions, both commercially published and bespoke, to address specific issues as they arise. We recognise that for some pupils, social and emotional factors can be complex, and therefore we seek to ensure that the provision we offer in this regard is highly personalised, and is generated through discussion with pupils and their families.

FRIENDSHIPS

All children in school are supported to develop relationships with their peers. For those pupils who find this most difficult there are alternative arrangements at play and lunchtime where play skills can be actively taught or modelled by staff. We have a daily lunch time nurture room where smaller group activities take place where there is a trained adult to support the children and give the children an opportunity to develop friendships. We work with all children to make sure we support and include each other. A range of support on the playground and a variety of activities are provided to make sure we encourage children to play together and build firm friendships. We have playground leaders within school in KS1 and KS2 who support on the playground every lunchtime.

PEER/SIBLING SUPPORT

It is sometimes appropriate for us to offer support to the peer groups/siblings of pupils with SEND. Sometimes this takes place in an open manner, enabling peers to ask questions and learn about the needs of their class mates (e.g. Circle Time discussions). At other times this takes a more general form such as working with the class on celebrating diversity. We make sure that all children are included in our school.

BULLYING

The school holds a clear position on bullying, and all pupils are taught to distinguish bullying from isolated acts of unkindness. There are a range of assemblies and whole school events linked to anti bullying, and class teachers are vigilant in monitoring the children's behaviour for indications of bullying. Where bullying is suspected, personalised support measures are put in place for both victims and perpetrators which take into account the needs of all the pupils involved. As a school we hold a firm stance of anti-bullying and we won the Dianna Award in 2014 for our work on Anti Bullying.

In our school the safety of all pupils is paramount. Therefore information about pupils with SEND is communicated to relevant school staff. Where risks are identified measures are taken to limit these, for example supervising a child more closely during the transition between class and care-giver at the end of the day.

What specialist services and expertise are available at or accessed by the setting/school/college?

SEND has a high priority in our school. We make sure that all school staff have a good awareness of SEND through regular staff meetings, training etc. Regular meetings are held to enable staff to work with the SENCO to develop their practice in relation to the specific needs of the pupils in their classes. Many of our members of staff have experience of working with children with a range of needs, and expertise is regularly shared through staff training. As a school we work closely with external agencies to gain advice relevant to individual children's needs and individual staff attend training courses as appropriate. We also share and further develop best practice through partnership work with other local schools.

Our SENCO and teachers work closely with our local SEND services, educational psychologist, speech and language teams, CAMHS, School Nurses and other external agencies to make sure we support all the children and meet their needs.

What training are the staff supporting children and young people with SEND have had or are having?

In our school training is specifically tailored to needs and is undertaken to equip staff with the necessary knowledge as the need arises. We make sure all staff receive regular updates from the SENCO and specialist teachers. As a school we have had training on behavior management, nurture of children, the new code of practice, emotion coaching and specialist speech and language support using the Nuffield programme in EYFS. We have regular relevant training to support interventions and the delivery of specific programs to support children. All staff work closely with parents and outside agencies to learn specific skills to support children with additional needs. In school we hold a list of training what our staff member have received.

How will my child/young person be included in activities outside this classroom including school trips?

As an inclusive school setting we seek to ensure that all pupils regardless of need are able to attend enrichment opportunities such as after school clubs, school trips etc. Therefore we work creatively and flexibly to make relevant adaptations to enable pupils with SEND to attend. For example, this might mean offering support to pupils attending after school clubs, booking accessible accommodation for residential trips etc. We have a range of out of school clubs and activities which change from time to time, all of which are available to every pupil regardless of need. For those pupils whose very high levels of need mean that the standard out of school activities on offer are inappropriate we seek to liaise with families about suitable alternatives (for example a day trip in place of an overnight residential). We make sure that any place we visit as a school is suitable for all of our children and the staff make sure they pre visit the site and complete a risk assessment before we take the children.

How accessible is the setting/school/college environment?

In school we are consistently improving to make sure we are fully inclusive and accessible. Our school is fully wheelchair accessible. We have disabled car parking and a large accessibility toilet. We make sure that all of our policies and practices are in line with the Equality Act 2010. We produce an accessibility plan that is available within school and this is re written on a three year rolling program. If needed guidance from specialists would need to be sought if specialist equipment is required.

How will the setting/school/college prepare and support my child/young person to join the setting/school/college or the next stage of education and life?

Entry into our school

Prior to entry to our school, it is usual for families of all pupils, including those with SEND, to visit for an informal tour of the school, usually with the head teacher. For those pupils with a high level of need, if it is agreed at this point that the school is able to meet the pupil's needs, a multi-agency Action for Inclusion meeting may be held. This meeting is an opportunity for families and professionals to share information about the pupil and for actions to be set to ensure the pupil is appropriately included. Following this meeting, the school considers the provision necessary and if appropriate, takes steps to acquire any resources needed to implement the provision. The action plan is then reviewed either prior to entry or shortly after. Prior to entry to school a range of transition measures are in place. This is personalised to meet the needs of the pupil but may include visits to the setting, visits by school staff to the pupil's home or current setting, a transition pack containing photos etc.

Transition into new settings.

Wherever possible we prepare pupils for transition to new settings in a manner most appropriate to the individual. For some pupils this takes the form of additional visits to the new setting, for others this might be working through materials which address key aspects of the new setting. Some of our pupils benefit from lengthy transition work whereas others find an extended transition stressful, and require a shorter introduction. We work closely with families at this time to ensure consistency of information. We have good links with our local high schools and work closely with the staff from those settings.

How are the setting's/school's/college's resources allocated and matched to children's/young people's special educational needs?

In order to ensure that quality first teaching approaches, which are the first wave of provision for learners with SEND, are used fully in each classroom, a proportion of the SEND budget is used towards class based provision. This might take the form of additional physical resources in classrooms e.g. additional computers, writing slopes, alternative seating etc. For those requiring provision additional to class based approaches, funding facilitates the school's "menu" of intervention programmes. In some cases it might also be used to provide additional human resource e.g. teaching assistants etc. Funding is matched to the provision required to enable pupils to achieve specified outcomes (i.e. outcome identified in discussion with teachers and parents or on EHC Plans). The SEND budget is the responsibility of the head teacher and SENCO and regular discussion and monitoring takes place to ensure that resources are allocated appropriately and cost efficiently.

If your child has a birth- to-25 Education, Health and Care Plan our school will receive additional funding for their needs and they will have access to all facilities provided by the school. This funding is allocated to enable the child to achieve their full potential. This could be used in a variety of ways including one to one support, specialist equipment, and appropriate toys to aid development or the creation of pictorial support aids.

How is the decision made about what type and how much support my child/young person will receive?

When children's needs are initially identified a discussion takes place between teachers, parents and pupils. At this meeting desired outcomes for the pupil will be discussed and the provision or support the pupils needs to meet those outcomes will be agreed. School staff are usually best placed to advise on the nature of the support/provision needed, but occasionally the school seeks the support of other agencies to advise on this. We make sure that parents and pupils will be fully involved in decisions about support and provision, and any decisions to implement provision which is different from or additional to that received by the majority of children are made in conjunction with parents and pupils. On occasions the school may seek the advice of external agencies to support the decision making process.

How are parents involved in the setting/school/college? How can I be involved?

Parents are encouraged to take an active role in the setting. We warmly encourage parents to volunteer in school e.g. hearing readers, accompanying trips etc. There are opportunities to join the PTFA who organise events and fundraise on behalf of the school. We have parent academy committee members who sit on the schools academy committee and when their term of office expires, details of how to stand are explained in a letter.

We operate an open door policy and encourage parents to come into school if they have any questions or queries. We are always happy to listen and support.
